

February 21, 2024

The Edblazon Times St. Edmund's College

Special Edblazon Edition

EDMUNDIAN RISE TO EDBLAZON SPIRIT

Shreyashi Vedashruti, Journalist, SECMUN

Edblazon 2024 theme board release.

As we continue our report on Edblazon 2024, on Wednesday, 21st February, 2024, St. Edmund's College continued to stay vibrant with several activities, from students and teachers alike running up and down juggling between academic engagements and activities for portrayal of sportsmanship and cheerful spirit. Always better than how it was, and how much better it will be. After chatting with many Clubs that the College holds dear, the General Animator and Joint General Animator, the most earnest teachers around and asking them to rate this year's Edblazon, we are successful in harmonising in celebration.

The teachers seem to be on high Edblazon spirits for both the YTT Western and Oriental competitions, and are of course rooting for the faculty team to win during the sports events, especially the cricket match scheduled on one of the upcoming days. When asked about how they coped managing as Teacher in-charge and Judges for varied activities together and teaching in classes, they all had a similar response about balance. The most important thing of being able to do both is the ability to manage time, commitment and passion of their choice. The event not only marks for them a moment to eye witness the flair of every Edmundian in their respective field but, most importantly is a time of coming together for recreation and creating memories to ignite the spirit for another milestone in the upcoming academic year. They also spoke of how content they were that there is an inclusivity of both male and female students participating in every event. Breaking stereotypes is a fun activity for inclusivity and most importantly, good memories.

Snippets from the audition of Mr. & Ms. Edblazon 2024, practice session of Cultural troupe, in conversation with NCC Cadets,

The General Animator of this year's Edblazon, Jethro Jarvis Jyrwa, feels ecstatic about the whole college week. Even Jethro spoke of the need for balance between attending classes and being needed everywhere round the campus. The Joint General Animator, Krishna Sharma, talked about how amazing it is that there is so much inclusivity in this year's Edblazon.

The activities that went throughout the day were in the following categories

SPORT ACTIVITIES

Basketball, Volleyball, Football matches were held at different time slots for the respective athletes. The Badminton event matches was supervised and organised by the Animator Jattan Chakma. Chess and Carrom tournaments were supervised and organised by the respective Animators and teachers. The Table Tennis tournament held its Semi Finals between winner of Match 1(QF), Match 4(QF) and winner of Match 2(QF), Match 3 (QF). Mawpoint event took place near the SEC ground and the reporting time was 2:30 P.M. It was held between BA 6th Semester, BCOM 4th Semester, BSc 6th Semester, BSW 4th Semester respectively.

From the set of the Extempore Speech.

In conversation with Faculty incharge and students of the Music Society.

LITERARY ACTIVITIES

Extempore Speech (Khasi) was organised under the guidance of Dr. Rosa M. Mawlong, Department of Khasi by the Animators Kashyapi Bezbaruah and Melody Nengngaihing. Neil Armstrong Nongbsap of 4th Semester Geography was declared as the winner. Dr. Ronald. P. Kharshiing, Department of Khasi and Ma'am Labet Phylla Phanbuh, served as the invited Judge for the event. Edmundians witnessed the Creative Writing event where participants were asked to pen down a Short Story and the winners will be declared on completion of the evaluation by the esteemed Jury members.

Gungun Saikia, Photo/Video Journalist for this edition.

(Pictures have also been collected by the Social Media Team, the Animators and volunteers of various events.)